My forecast says

Today you have to speak up

To go to the next level

Be ready for an open and honest conversation

But to whom I can converse

Is it my husband or my son

These two are the only people with

Whom I am close

I think I am close.

What sort of conversations

Can I have with these two

When one is always evasive

While the other one hides behind anger.

The next question is what

Is the subject of the conversation

The subject is plenty

I can choose anything

But whatever the subject
The result is always going to be the same
One is always evasive
The other one hides behind anger.

An honest conversation says
My forecast
Honesty will be there on my side
But on the other side
One is always evasive, the other
One hides behind anger.

Reach the next level
Says my forecast
While I am groping in the dark
What is the existing level
Nobody is there to tell me.
One is evasive, the other hides behind anger.
